An Alabama correspondent wants to know when it is good policy to risk your contract for an overtrick in a rubber bridge game. The answer to that one is "never" modified to "hardly ever" if we are cross-questioned.

West opens the king of clubs, continues with the ace and shifts to a trump. You win in your hand and play a second trump to dummy. Trumps are now accounted for and you can run off dummy's four diamonds to leave yourself with just one heart. Now you can lead the jack of hearts from dummy and, if East holds the ace and plays low, you will score an overtrick. If he plays the ace as he should, you will still make your contract.

What's wrong with that in a rubber bridge game? Nothing from the standpoint of getting the rubber over with. Many rubber bridge players would simply spread their hand and claim four-odd at trick three.

Now, suppose that you like overtricks. Maybe you are a duplicate player, in a rubber bridge game for a change. Maybe you are scoring rubbers to the nearest 100 and an overtrick will be worth an extra 100 points. Or, what is most likely, you are a very good player who knows that West would never pass as dealer when not vulnerable if he held ace-king-ace.

Now, you lead dummy's jack of hearts as soon as you have drawn trumps. If East is smart, he may see that you're trying for an extra trick. Otherwise he will play a low heart. Now, you rise with your king and have the rest.

You have risked nothing if your analysis is correct.

More Facts About Social Security

By Ken Hargis

If you have any questions regarding social security, I invite your letters. Just send them to Ken Hargis, Social Security Administration, P. O. Box 1319, Texarkana, Texas.

QUESTION: My husband and I are both working and paying the social security tax. We have three young children. If something happens to me, will my children receive social security benefits on my record?

ANSWER: Yes, in case of your death the children will receive monthly benefits, also, if you become disabled, you may qualify for monthly benefits for yourself and the children.

Children now have the same protection on their mother's record as they have on the father's record.

QUESTION: My 20 year old son is severely disabled the result of an auto accident. He has been working part-time for several years. Could he be eligible for disability benefits based on his own work?

ANSWER: Yes. At his age he needs credit for only 1 1/2 years of work in the last three years before his disability began. If his disability is expected to prevent his returning to work for at least 12 calendar months, he should file a claim at the social security office.

QUESTION: How much can I earn and still receive social security benefits?

ANSWER: You may earn $1,680 in a calendar year and receive all of your benefits. If you earn more than $1,680, an amount equal to half of your earnings over $1,680 and up to $2,880 is not paid. For earnings above $2,880, you lose $1 benefit for each $1 earned. An exception is that payments are made for any month in which you do not earn over $140 and do not work in self-employment. Of course, all payments are made beginning with the month you become 72 regardless of your earnings.

QUESTION: When I applied for my social security card I used my nickname. Now I go by the same as shown on my birth certificate. How do I get my card changed?

ANSWER: We are sending you a form entitled "Request for Change in Social Security Records". Fill it out sign it, and mail it to this office with your present card. We will send you a corrected card by return mail.

QUESTION: Are dental services covered by Medicare?

ANSWER: Medicare does not pay for items and services in connection with the care, treatment, filling, removal, or replacement of teeth. However, payment may be made for dental surgery related to the jaw, or to the repair of any fracture of the jaw or facial bones. The removal of impacted wisdom teeth is not covered by Medicare.

Engagement Announced

JUDY DANITA TAYLOR

James Early Taylor of McNeil announces the engagement and approaching marriage of his daughter, Judy Danita, to James Wiley Duke, son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Duke, Jr. of Prescott.

The wedding is planned for August 23.

Miss Taylor is the granddaughter of Mrs. Sam Taylor and the late Mr. Sam Taylor and the late Rev. and Mrs. Sam Durham of McNeil.

Mr. Duke is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wiley E. Gunter of McNeil and the late Mr. and Mrs. James M. Duke Sr. of Prescott.

Rock Comes of Age

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — It's hard to imagine Paul McCartney at 50 or Mick Jagger pushing 60 or any middle-aged rock group. But, barring accident or illness, the years will pile up on them and someday they'll all be old.

Can there be middle-aged rock groups? Or will today's young and vital performers change as they age and switch to a less-frantic form of music?

"Perhaps there will be middle-aged groups," says John Kay of Steppenwolf. "I've seen Bill Haley and Bo Diddley playing lately, and they're not young any more. But I think it's more likely that today's groups will simply disband and go their separate ways."

Already many of the successful ones are changing. They frequently abandon long road tours when they make it big, and just go out weekends and play concerts. It's enough—one good night will gross them as much as $90,000.

What most of them want is a chance to do films or television, so they can stay home more. More and more have become family men and there's the pull to stick around the house and the kids.

The Everly Brothers are not old, but they're not young any more, either. They first achieved prominence in the middle '50s, so they've been doing well for around 15 years. Figure it out.

Their blend of country and rock—it used to be called "rockabilly" but "folk rock" is the fashionable term now—has shot them suddenly into an ABC summer show, filling in for Johnny Cash. This is what they want.

Phil, the younger, admits that the important things in his life today are his 34-year-old son and his 38-year-old Packard, in that order. He writes poetry, hopes to have some published "because it would be proof that it has some validity."

Don is concerned with such things as health and painting. He recently gave up smoking (three packs a day) and eating meat (two steaks a day), because he felt that cigarettes were bad and steaks were inflationary.

Musically, "we're doing the same things we've been doing for years," Don says. "Only now we do it for a much wider variety of audience. We've worked on rock shows and on country shows, and maybe we play our stuff a little harder on the rock shows and a little softer on the country shows, but almost the same."

This wider variety of audience is also the reason why another performer who is a callow teen-ager—blues singer B. B. King—has lately become a big star.

King has been singing blues for 25 years, and 21 years of that was on the road. He says he has had two months off in 21 years, and one year he played 342 one-nighters. Now, suddenly, things have picked up. He figures he'll earn 75 per cent more money this year than he did in '68.

He's singing the same as he always did. Once, in the mid-'50s, he thought he should try to join 'em, since he wasn't having much luck trying to beat 'em. So he augmented his band and gave it a rocking-jazz flavor. It was a nice sound, he said, but the big payroll kept him broke.

He used to play mostly blues places. Now he's playing the big Vegas hotels, before well-dressed and well-fed audiences.

"I'm enjoying this success," he says. "As a boy in Mississippi, I never had a home of my own, never until I bought one for my folks when I was 21. So I always liked clothes, because I never had much. Now I buy

Bob Thomas at the Movies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Okay, I'll give you a story," said Johnny Cash in his famous country-style, no-nonsense manner. And he did.

The reporter was visiting the studio stage where "A Gunfight" was filming interiors between locations at Santa Fe, N.M., and in Spain. The powerfully built Cash was performing a scene in a bedroom with actress Karen Black. Cash plays an 1800s gunfighter, Miss Black portrays the local prostitute.

The scene was fairly tame by recent film standards. That was Cash's story:

"When I read this script, I liked it a lot, and I told the producers, Ronnie Lubin and Hal Bloom, that I would do it. But there was just one scene that had to be changed.

"That was the scene in the bedroom where I dropped in to see the town prostitute. In the script it said that she was to appear in bed nude, with the sheet pulled up to her waist.

"I couldn't do that scene. How could I do that and then record an album of hymns? Or talk on my television show about what religion means to my life? Why, I'd be a hypocrite:

"I told them what I said I couldn't do a scene with a naked woman in the very first important movie I've made. And they said it was okay, it would be taken care of.

"Last Friday it came time to do that scene. I asked Karen if she had seen any of the new pages. She said there weren't any new pages. That's when I found out they were planning to do the scene just the way it was written. I put my foot down."

After a confrontation with the producers, Cash's will prevailed. Miss Black remained fully clothed.

The Nashville-based singer remarked that he and his wife June love to see movies and have a projector in their home. But, like many another movie fan, he is repelled by many of today's films.

"Nowadays they make movies filled with a lot of four-letter words, and they say that nobody is offended by that any more."

Aside from the hassle over nudity, Johnny Cash appears to be enjoying himself with his first big film—he has appeared as himself in minor ones. He costars with Kirk Douglas in "A Gunfight," and that's just what they have in the final reel.

"Last time I got up at dawn and went home at sunset was when I was 17. Picked cotton for $3 a hundred pounds, and some days I could pick 250 pounds. Like this work better."

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Body Builds Barriers Against Disease Germs

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

It has been aptly said that the wonder is not that we get sick but that, in spite of a constant bombardment by disease germs, we stay well at all. This feat is accomplished through a variety of protective mechanisms. Germs in the air that find their way into your eyes or mouth are usually killed by a powerful antiseptic called lysozyme in your tears and saliva.

Those germs that are swallowed without being killed by your saliva are met in your stomach by even stronger antiseptics. Few, if any, are likely to reach your duodenum, just beyond the outlet of your stomach.

When you suffer a break in your skin the protective mechanism is a little more complex. In the resulting inflammation, chemicals are mobilized at the scene which allow the white blood cells to escape from your capillaries. In an amebalike process, these leukocytes extend their walls around individual invaders and completely engulf them. Even when an infection gains a foothold, as in a boil or abscess, the leukocytes wall off the infection and keep it from spreading throughout your body.

If some of the germs get into the lymph channels or blood stream, they find another barrier in one of the thousands of small lymph nodes stationed at strategic points throughout your body.

These nodes may become enlarged and tender but they help to keep the infection localized.

Another important defense mechanism is the foreign-body reaction whereby your blood produces antibodies against the invaders. Each antibody is specifically tailored to one type of foreign protein. It is this immune reaction that, for a variable length of time, prevents a second attack by the same type of organism. A similar immune reaction is responsible for various allergies—a less fortunate accompaniment of your protective forces.

In the case of influenza and the common cold, the immunity is limited to a specific strain and, when a second attack occurs, it is because either your immunity has gradually disappeared or you have acquired a new strain of the virus. Infants during the first five or six months of life are protected by antibodies transferred from the mother's blood. After he is 6 months old, the

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen help US!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off. Send your teen-age questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help US! (the HOPE STAR).

HE'S NOT YET READY

Dear Helen:

I'm 18 and in the Army. I was going with Marianne and got her P. G. Well, I thought I was a big man, so I broke up with her. Then I met Charlotte and fell in love with her. She said she'd marry me, and that's when I decided to go in the Army. She didn't like this and broke up.

Well, after I was away for a while I grew up and discovered I really loved Marianne after all. But meanwhile, she has promised to marry another guy. I called her and asked her to change her mind but she said she couldn't hurt her new guy, even though she still loves me. Besides her parents don't like me and I can't blame them.

Being that I'll be tied up with the Service for several years, what can I do?—ROY

P. S. Please give my address to anyone who wants to write to soldiers. Reading your column every day, I know girls are always asking for Vietnam addresses. Dear Roy:

Somehow I don't think you are yet ready to be engaged. Let Marianne make her own decision. Perhaps she is more mature than you are. — H.

Dear Helen:

Several of my college friends have decided against having children as a personal fight against the population explosion.

I think this is dangerous. What if ALL brainy people chose to be barren? Meanwhile, the low-mentality couples would keep right on propagating? A combination of heredity and bad environment would create a below-average race. Just as genetics can produce superior persons, it can also cause inferior traits. Who knows, we might even regress to the Stone Age.

Rather than say "I won't have any children," I'm going to say, "I'll have my two and raise them to be the very best. I'll also do my part to bring birth control information and materials to depressed areas all over the world, where the danger of over-population really exists." — T. C.

Dear T. C.:

Bravo! — H.

Dear Helen:

How do you stop cat fights? Several times a night we're awakened by those bawling beasts. My Dad wants to shoot them with a B—gun, but Mom says he might hurt them. If we could catch them we'd take 'em to the pound but they're too fast for us.

Last night I saw three growling hissing cats on a neighbor's fence. So I went out in the yard and climbed the fence, taking along as ammunition some unripe peaches. I missed them. In addition, I fell off the fence into the neighbor's yard and couldn't climb back over. It ended with the cats still fighting and me banging on the neighbor's back door to get out of their yard! Please help!

—A TRUE CAT LOVER

Dear TCL:

If you can sneak up on the cats with a jet spray from the garden hose you might discourage them. Anyway, it's better than climbing fences. — H.

Q—What is the cause of a psoriasis abscess? What is the best treatment?
A—A psoriasis abscess is a "cold" (slowly forming, non-inflammatory) abscess arising from a disease, usually tuberculosis, of the lumbar vertebrae. The pus formed descends into the sheath of the psoriasis muscle, which is attached to the involved vertebra. A combination of surgery and modern antituberculous drugs is used in its treatment.

Q—My son-in-law has tuberculosis of the kidneys. Is it catching? Can it be cured? What drugs are used in treating it? Is surgery ever necessary?
A—Tuberculosis of the kidney is not catching. It is treated with the same drugs used for pulmonary tuberculosis. Surgical removal of the diseased kidney is rarely necessary.

Q—If a person works in a tuberculosis hospital and his tests are negative, can he still be a carrier of the disease?
A—No.

Q—Is it true that radio and television give off harmful radiation?
A—Radio does not but color television sets do when viewed too closely. If the viewer sits at least six feet from the screen, there is no

Q—What happens to a person if his thymus is removed?
A—The thymus helps a child to develop the ability to combat infections. This function is completed before he reaches puberty, after which the gland shrinks and becomes less important. It may be removed from an adult because of a tumor of the gland or because one has myasthenia gravis. In either case, the health is improved.

Q—I hear there is a need for blood donors. Where can I go to volunteer?
A—Contact your local Red Cross unit.

Mays Close To Coveted 3,000 Hits

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Willie Mays, poised on the threshold of one of baseball's greatest achievements, needs only a hot weekend against the Houston Astros to celebrate the 3,000-hit plateau in Tuesday night's All-Star Game at Cincinnati.

Mays, who'll be the starting center fielder for the National League All Stars, cracked two hits Friday night in San Francisco's 8-5 victory over Houston. That left him with a career total of 2,994—six away from the magic 3,000 mark.

When Willie gets there, he'll be the 10th player in history to reach 3,000 hits and the second this season. Hank Aaron of Atlanta made it on May 17 and now has 3,048. He'll be in right field alongside of Mays Tuesday night which helps explain why the NL rates as 7-5 favorite.

In other National League action Friday, Montreal stood off New York 9-7, Pittsburgh whipped St. Louis 6-2, Chicago blanked Philadelphia 2-0, Los Angeles topped San Diego 9-7 and Atlanta split a doubleheader with Cincinnati, winning 11-9 before losing 3-1.

In the American League, Washington nipped New York 2-1, Milwaukee shaded Oakland 2-1, Detroit tripped Baltimore 4-2, Boston downed Cleveland 7-1, Kansas City swept a doubleheader from Chicago 8-4 and 2-0 and California edged Minnesota 2-1.

Coco Laboy cracked two doubles and a single to drive in four runs and some clutch relief work by Claude Raymond helped Montreal end New York's seven-game winning streak.

The Mets had whittled a five-run Expo lead down to two and had the bases loaded with one out when Raymond came on the shut off an eighth inning rally. After Montreal added two more runs in the ninth, the Mets loaded the bases against Raymond again, but the veteran reliever pitched his way out, allowing only one run to score.

Pursuing Pittsburgh took advantage of New York's loss to chop one game off the Met NL East lead by beating St. Louis. Al Oliver's ninth inning homer broke a tie and the Pirates rushed three more runs across & two on a triple by reliever Dave Giusti, who won his sixth straight game.

Ferguson Jenkins fired a five-hitter and struck out 11 as Chicago blanked Philadelphia. The Cubs scored both their runs in the second inning when Jim Hickman opened with a single and scored on Ron Santo's double. Cleo James sacrificed Santo to third and Johnny Callison delivered the run with a single.

San Diego threw a scare into Los Angeles, bunting four home runs in the ninth inning. But the late explosion fell short as the Dodgers held on to beat the Padres.

Orlando Cepeda crashed a pair of two-run homers and Cleo Boyer also tagged one as Atlanta hung on to whip Cincinnati in the first game of their doubleheader. It was the third straight defeat for the Reds—their longest losing streak of the year—and the second straight loss in which they scored nine runs.

All-Time All-Stars Are Surprise Package

IRA BERKOW

Babe Is Out And So Is Joe

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Al Kaline may not beat out Frank Robinson for right field on the American League's all-star team, but he did beat out Babe Ruth.

When baseball's 41st all-star game begins in Cincinnati July 14, Kaline will probably be on the bench. But he is on the all-time all-star team according to his record of performance in all-star game competition.

The American and National League teams, with leaders at their positions including right- and left-handed pitchers, were dreamed up by Newspaper Enterprise Association.

The players were chosen on the basis of "representational statistics" compiled by the Elias Sports Bureau. "Representational," in this case, means a minimum of 14 official at-bats and at least nine innings pitched in all-star games.

Ruth, at the end of his career when the first all-star game was played in 1933, participated in only two all-star games. He batted six official times, hitting one homer. His average was .333. Kaline, though he has a lifetime all-star average of only .324, has come to bat 34 times.

There were many other surprises. In fact, of the 20 players, only five are in the Hall-of-Fame: Jimmy Foxx, 3b, A.L.; Charley Gehring, 2b, A.L.; Ted Williams, lf, A.L.; Lefty Gomez, lhp, A.L., and Stan Musial, lf, N.L.

And of the 20, only four are active today: Kaline; Willie Mays, cf, N.L.; Bill Freehan, c, A.L., and Juan Marichal, rhp, N.L.

As most would expect, DiMaggio is in center field for the American League. As few would expect, however, it is Dom and not Joe. Dom played in six games and had six hits in 17 times at bat for a .353 average. Joe, meanwhile, played in 11 games, batted 40 times and had nine hits. His all-star game average was .225, as compared to his lifetime regular-season average of .325.

Another unexpected development was that of right-handed pitcher, American League. The man selected was a Cleveland Indian great. But it was not Bob Feller or Early Wynn or Bob Lemon or, even, Satchel Paige. It was Mel Harder. In nine innings pitched, Harder gave up no earned runs, and his won-lost record was 1-0.

Feller was a close second. His record was also 1-0. He pitched 12 innings and had a 0.73 ERA.

Gomez is the American League's left-handed pitcher. He holds the all-star game record of most wins (three). He was the winning pitcher in the first all-star game, and those in 1935 and 1937.

Bill Skowron beat out another Yankee, the estimable Lou Gehrig, at first base. A.L. Skowron played five games, one less than Gehrig, and hit .429 to Gehrig's .222.

The teams:

AMERICAN LEAGUE—Bill Skowron, 1b; Charley Gehring, 2b; Jimmy Foxx, 3b (though normally a first baseman in regular-season games); Vern Stephens, ss; Ted Williams, lf; Dom DiMaggio, cf; Al Kaline, rf; Bill Freehan, c; Mel Harder, rhp; Lefty Gomez, lhp.

NATIONAL LEAGUE—Ted Kluszewski, 1b; Billy Herman, 2b; Stan Hack, 3b; Arky Vaughan, ss; Stan Musial, lf; Willie Mays, cf; Enos Slaughter, rf; Walker Cooper, c; Juan Marichal, rhp; Johnny Vandermeer, lhp.

Tigers Take Orioles for 4-2 Victory

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer
Denny McLain isn't the only pitcher the Detroit Tigers needed back to make a run for the pennant. Don't forget Les Cain and Tom Timmerman ... if you had ever heard of them.

While they might be well known in Toledo, Ohio, neither one had made much of a splash in the big leagues. Their names were about as familiar as that of a batting practice pitcher.

But while McLain was getting all the headlines first in Florida and then when he rejoined the team this month, Cain and Timmerman have quietly and steadily pulled the Tigers to within five games of first place Baltimore in the American League East.

The pair combined Friday night to cut the lead to that figure by pitching the Tigers past the Orioles 4-2 at Detroit.

And Cain also chipped in with a decisive two-run single.

In the West Division, California also sliced Minnesota's lead to five games with a 2-1 victory over the Twins at Anaheim.

In other games, Washington tripped the New York Yankees 2-1 in Frank Howard's homer, Boston hammered Cleveland 7-1, Milwaukee trimmed Oakland 2-1 and Kansas City swept a pair from the Chicago White Sox 8-6 and 2-0.

In the National League, Montreal outslugged the New York Mets 9-7. Pittsburgh stopped St. Louis 6-2. San Francisco outbait Houston 8-5. Los Angeles outlasted San Diego 9-7. Atlanta overpowered Cincinnati 11-9 before losing 3-1 and, in the afternoon, the Chicago Cubs blanked Philadelphia 2-0.

Andy Messersmith pitched California past the Twins with a six-hitter, giving up a run in the first when Billy Cowan allowed a routine fly to drop for a double. Jim Fregosi gave him his victory with a two-run homer, his 15th, in the first.

Howard slashed his 24th homer with a man on in the third inning to spoil the major league debut of Steve Kline, who lost a duel with the Senators' Dick Bosman. Bosman hurled a four-hitter.

Gary Peters scattered seven hits and Carl Yastrzemski singled and homered for two runs for Boston, while Bob Bolin singled for one run and pitched his first complete game of the season for Milwaukee.

Pat Kelly drove in four runs with a double and a homer in Kansas City's first triumph and Jim Rooker scattered seven hits and hit a sacrifice fly in the nightcap as the Royals handed the White Sox their ninth doubleheader loss. They have split once.

Cups Of Sugar

Since the beginnings of borrowings amongst neighbors there's always been the broad hint, if not the suspicion, that those backyard, backdoor visits were more for the passing of the time of day, or tidbits of gossip, than for the purpose of fetching a cup of sugar.

In fact, few of those neighborly minglings ever produced any really substantial loans. Perhaps a dollop of shortening for the dinner biscuits untill the borrower could get to the store, maybe a couple of eggs for the upside-down cake until the hens came through, or even a spool of thread. Never anything important enough to cause next-door neighbors to fall out because of non-repayments.

Those back-door visits, really, were just homey little chats during which folks who lived on the same block could get to know each other better. Maybe this is why there's so many strangers these days: neighbors don't drop over any more to borrow cups of sugar. —Wilmington (N.C.) Star.

May Day! Scorpions Loose

One section of the Senate's version of postal reform has a few stingers in it. It permits transmission by mail of live scorpions for use in research or antivenom production.

Postal employees are protected by packaging requirements. But what about passengers in airplanes, traveling with air mail?

Never fear. Only nonpassenger planes may be used for the scorpions. That's reassuring. A few scorpions loose on a flight to Miami would be more dangerous than a hijacker. Even a hijacker can be reasoned with. —Middlesboro (Ky.) Daily News

Ask Women
to Wage
Fight on War

By MARGARET SCHERF

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — With the support of several prominent members, the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom has called on the women of America to open an economic war on war.

"We are urging women across the country not to shop on the first Saturday of each month and to boycott products manufactured by firms that are major war suppliers," said Katherine L. Camp, league president.

Tightening household purse-strings against the armaments suppliers will allow millions of women to dramatize their opposition to the war in Indochina, she said.

"The pocketbook can be a powerful persuader."

About 50 women attended an "Emergency Planning Conference for a Worldwide Women's War on War Thursday, including Coretta Scott King, widow of Martin Luther King Jr., and Bess Myerson Grant, New York City's commissioner for consumer affairs.

"There is one massive group that could, if it would, change the programmed 'self-destruct' which now seems the destiny of man," Mrs. Camp said. "That group is women."

In addition to Mrs. Grant and Mrs. King, the "Shopper's Stoppage" was put together with the aid of Jane Hart, wife of Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., Jeanette Rankin, former congresswoman from Montana, and Felicia Bernstein, wife of composer-conductor Leonard Bernstein.

"We will begin immediately preparing lists of consumer items produced by major war suppliers," said Virginia Snitow, president of the women's division of the American Jewish Congress. "We hope to put those lists in the hands of millions of women."

The words of British historian Arnold Toynbee were distributed during the convention:

"The mothers of America are going to be the Pentagon's most formidable adversary. The mothers of America have still to go into action, and I believe that's a battle that the pentagon cannot win."

Homosexual
Ban Before
High Court

By BARRY SCHWEID

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The routine arrest of a homosexual in a Dallas restroom last year has wound up in the Supreme Court as a challenge to all state laws making "unnatural sex acts" a crime.

The explosive test case has been brought to the high court by Texas Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin in a defense of the state's sodomy law, found unconstitutional last January by a three-judge federal court in Dallas.

The confessed homosexual, Alvin Leon Buchanan, is cross-applying with a second homosexual, Travis Lee Strickland, to broaden the district court's decision into an ironclad protection of private homosexual conduct.

Should the justices accept the dispute when the new term opens in the fall, all states could be barred from making any kind of private sexual conduct between consenting adults a crime.

The Supreme Court first pronounced a constitutional right of privacy in 1965 when it struck down Connecticut's birth control law. The court said the state could not forbid married couples from using contraceptive devices.

This ruling formed the basis of the district court decision, particularly since married couples as well as homosexuals could be punished under the Texas law.

Atty. Gen. Martin, in appealing, says states should be allowed to draw a line between "the marital union of intercourse from which offspring are born" and sodomy, which, he said, "often leads to distaste, revulsion and divorce."

On the other side stand Buchanan, Strickland and their lawyer, Henry J. McClusky Jr. of Dallas, who is arguing that all adults, single or married, homosexual or heterosexual, have a constitutional right of privacy that states cannot invade.

Court to Check on Lawyers

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Committee on Professional Conduct of the Arkansas Supreme Court is investigating a report that some Pulaski County lawyers have solicited cases, in violation of legal ethics and state law.

Former state Insurance Commissioner Allan W. Horne announced May 29 that he had found evidence of widespread solicitation of cases in Pulaski County and was turning his findings over to the Committee on Professional Conduct.

Paul Johnson of Little Rock, executive secretary of the committee, said the committee is formidable adversary. The committee, which is an arm of the Supreme Court, has the power to bring suit to have a lawyer disbarred.

Some Display Hobby,
But This One Keeps
His in Refrigerator

By JOY STILLEY

Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Most hobbyists display their collections where others can see and admire. My husband keeps his in the refrigerator.

What he accumulates, with the dedication worthy of a confirmed philatelist, is relishes and condiments. Although his assemblage of sauces and savories is a constantly changing one, at any given time it would strike envy into the heart of the best-stocked supermarket manager.

No Saturday trip to the grocery is complete without the acquisition of at least one new bottle or jar of gourmet goody. The success of a vacation trip is measure, not in terms of the sights seen, but on the basis of how many regional kinds of piccilli we managed to pick up at shopping centers along the way.

A current inventory of the refrigerator shelf devoted to dressings alone shows — in addition to such immigrant items as Russian, Italian and four variations on the French theme — an unaccountable number of cheese-based creations, green onion, low-calorie, spicy, tomato and sweet and sour dressings.

Just to make sure there's something around to toss on the tossed salad, my resident chef has stirred up a few concoctions of his own. These defy a classification and description but one of his more imaginative ventures along this line contained oil, vinegar, mayonnaise, tomato juice, pickle juice, apple juice, pureed onions and a spoonful of ginger ale.

He claimed it was good. I refused to do the research needed to arrive at a critical evaluation.

The peck of pickled peppers Peter Piper picked is paltry compared with the plethora of pickles my partner picks to be positive we have plenty in the pantry.

There are at the moment sweet, sour, dill, half-sour, mixed, sliced, chipped, chopped, tomato rings, pickled peppers, peppered pickles, garden salad, midget gherkins, normal-

Auto Thefts Are Under Year Ago

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Police said today that auto thefts in June totaled 105, compared with 111 for the same month in 1969.

State Police conducted a month-long auto theft prevention campaign during June in cooperation with other agencies and organizations.

State Police Director Col. Ralph Scott said the reduction of thefts may have halted the upward trend of thefts which developed during the first five months of 1970. He said 659 thefts were reported during the first six months of this year compared to 646 for the same period in 1969.

Scott said the auto theft rate could be reduced at least 40 per cent with the removal of ignition keys.

size gherkins and cucumber cubes.

In the sauce department we have kettle-simmered chili sauce, home-style chili sauce, Southern-style chili sauce, Texas chili sauce and red-hot chili sauce. Then there's horseradish sauce, sweet and sour sauce, hickory barbecue sauce and soy sauce.

Hamburger, anyone? In addition to hamburger relish, we have hot-dog relish, red pimiento relish, sweet pepper relish, corn relish, green tomato relish, chow-chow and crispy cucumber relish.

If you prefer ketchup, try tangy ketchup, ketchup with onion, pizza ketchup, hickory ketchup and plain old tomato ketchup. Mustard? Take your pick of flavors and colors: mustard with horseradish, hickory-smoke-flavored mustard, spicy mustard, brown mustard and bright yellow mustard.

Ordinarily I'm perfectly willing to let my compulsive shopper do his thing. As hobbies go, it's cheaper than buying old masters, more practical than saving match covers and less dangerous than collecting barbed wire.

There is one problem, though. The family larder is often so jammed with the accompaniments to go with food that there's no room left for food to go with the accompaniments.

Appeal on Bradley
Mixed Drinks

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A Bradley County delegation Thursday asked Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller to persuade the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Board to revoke a mixed drink permit it issued to the Town House Club at Warren.

Petitions, signed by 347 persons, were presented to the governor's office by the group, which represented the Bradley County Christian Civic League. The petitions asked Rockefeller to intercede on behalf of the signers.

The petitions were accepted by Robert W. Faulkner, executive aide to the governor. Faulkner told the group that Rockefeller would present the league's views to the ABC for its consideration.

Warren is located in Bradley County which is dry. However, under the 1969 mixed drink law, the ABC can issue permits giving private, nonprofit clubs in dry counties, the authority to dispense mixed drinks to their members.

James Young of Warren, a league member, said the governor had the power to influence the ABC to revoke the Town House's liquor permit.

The Bradley County group also presented members of the Marion County Ministerial Alliance a $527 check to help the ministers in their proposed court test of the constitutionality of the mixed drink law.

Senate Votes
To Repeal
Resolution

By LEE BYRD

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the derisive, tongue-in-cheek moaning of Republicans, the Senate has voted to repeal the 1964 Gulf of Tonkin resolution for the second time in less than a month.

And once again there was extensive debate, albeit in a lighter vein, as the Tonkin measure was re-raised 57-5 and sent to the House.

An earlier repealer was attached to the military sales bill now subject of a Senate-House conference—at the urging of Sen. Robert J. Dole, a Kansas Republican and a key defender of administration war policy.

Dole's move was aimed at giving the administration credit for disposing of the resolution, which former President Johnson used as authority for escalating the Vietnam war.

But Senate doves, original planners of the repeal, were rankled at Dole's theft and insisted upon doing it all over again on their own terms.

Republicans mocked the replay, obviously delighted at having forced the tactical turn of events.

"I have been in the Senate for 16 years and I thought I had seen pretty much everything," deadeppened Republican Gordon Allott of Colorado, "but this is truly remarkable."

"It's another form of yoga," cracked Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania.

After a while even Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., the chief backer of the separate repealer, got into the spirit and counterattacked with a flurry of clichés.

Examples:
Dole: I might observe that we could talk until the cows come home—they were mentioned in the last debate—but it probably is not necessary that we have extended debate on this matter.
Fulbright: Talk to the cows?
Dole: Until the cows come home.

Fulbright: I have no intention of talking to the cows until the cows come home, whenever that may be.

Scott: Or until the chickens come home to roost.

Alexander
Casts Losing
Ballot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., voted Thursday against a motion to table the Cooper-Church amendment and said his vote was a "vote for the restoration of the right of Congress to work the will of the people in the formulation of foreign policy."

The amendment would limit presidential action in Cambodia.

Reps. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., and John Paul Hammer-schmidt, R-Ark., voted in favor of tabling. Rep. David Pryor, D-Ark., was not present.

The House eventually sent the measure to a conference with the Senate.

The President has no more right to ignore the Congress in the making of foreign policy than the Congress has the right to ignore the states on matters reserved to them under the Constitution," Alexander said. "Perhaps if former chief executives had consulted with the Congress as instructed by the Constitution, this tragic war could have been avoided."

Its Plan

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Little Rock School Board adopted a new desegregation plan Thursday that would loosen restrictions on transfers between high schools, initiate limited busing and adjust geographic attendance zones to increase desegregation without imposing a "serious transportation problem."

Is Watermelon Rind
Preserve Favorite?
Here's Your RecipeBy MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

When it is watermelon weather, how many people still make watermelon rind preserves? If the answer is "Not many," the reason may be lack of a recipe. We plan to change all that with the help of this recipe of Mrs. Hazel Castle.

Watermelon Rind Preserves

Select melons with thick rind and peel off all green portion, using only white, cut into small pieces and soak overnight in mild salt water (½ c. salt to 1 gal. water).

Remove from salt water and cook in clear water 30 minutes or until tender. Drain well. For 4 lbs. of melon rind make a syrup of

- 9 C. Sugar
- 8 C. Water
- 2 lemons, sliced
- 4 Stick Cinnamon
- 4 Cloves (tie spices in cloth bag)

Boil syrup and spices 5 min. before adding rind. Then cook until transparent and clear. Add a little green or red cake coloring, if desired. Remove spice bag and pour into jars and seal.

These preserves are good as an addition to fruit cakes that you will make next winter. Some people use them instead of citron.

For Public
Withdrawal
Timetable

By CARL C. CRAFT

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A bipartisan antiwar conference sponsored by some 100 senators and congressmen says public release of a definite withdrawal timetable offers the best chance for a successful American exit from Vietnam.

A "slow and erratic withdrawal" under President Nixon's Vietnamization plan "could confront America with a choice between a bloody Dunkirk or nuclear doomsday," Sen. Alan Cranston said during the day-long session Thursday.

Cranston, a California Democrat, said an enemy uncertain over whether the United States truly intends to withdraw entirely will be tempted to launch a major attack as U.S. forces decrease under current plans.

"If they do attack, we would be unable to rush reinforcements in fast enough to stop them and we would then have to choose between an amphibious retreat or fighting back on an escalated scale," he added, "even to the point of using nuclear weapons."

Conference Chairman Arthur Larson, a former special aide to the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower, said "the healing of domestic divisions could begin at once, as could the restoration of confidence in American leadership abroad" with public designation of a withdrawal timetable.

W. Averell Harriman, former U.S. ambassador to the Paris peace talks, said he is "in full accord with the conception that there should be a fixed withdrawal." He said negotiations would be aided by such a step because "the North Vietnamese do not believe we have any intention of getting out of South Vietnam."

The conference was not limited to the withdrawal timetable and gave evidence of what has become a standard hard-line separation between Senate doves and the Nixon administration.

Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, said the "main roadblock to negotiation is the dance of death in which we are locked with the Thieu-Ky regime, a military dictatorship whose stock in trade is the harsh repression of the freedoms we Americans prize and the brutal treatment of non-Communist political opponents of their unrepresentative regime."

President Nixon seems bothered by the question of humiliation, said Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., "yet it seems to me it is much more humiliating to be regarded by the rest of the world as an immature and unwise community insensitive to humane considerations, than it is to admit that we are not omnipotent."

Licensed Nurses
Training Program

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Mrs. Leona Troxell, administrator of the state Employment Security Division, and Education Commissioner A. W. Ford announced today approval for the training of 30 licensed practical nurses in the Forrest City-Wynne-Brinkley area.

The objective of the training is to provide presently unemployed people with sufficient knowledge and skill to allow them to become licensed practical nurses and to pass the state licensed practical nurses' examination.

Training will be over a 50-week period and will cost $87,967. Training will be conducted by the state Board for Vocational Education at Forrest City.

62 Prisoners
Released to
No. Vietnam

By RICHARD PYLE

Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Two junks carrying 62 prisoners of war and 24 fishermen reached North Vietnam today, completing the biggest repatriation of captives of the Vietnam war.

All of the prisoners threw off their clothing, duffle bags and gifts given them by the Saigon government as they boarded the boats, cast off from a South Vietnamese landing ship and departed at full speed for the six-mile run to shore.

A South Vietnamese spokesman reported that the two motorized junks "were observed reaching the shore" at Cuu Tung village, just north of the Ben Hai River and the 17th parallel that divides North and South Vietnam.

Associated Press Correspondent Jay Sharbutt, aboard the South Vietnamese landing ship Vung Tau, reported that no incidents occurred and no North Vietnamese patrol craft were in sight as the prisoners headed homeward under a 15-hour cease-fire declared by the Saigon government over a 103-square mile area of coastal land and sea.

The 86 returnees included POWs who were sick and disabled, most of them paraplegics.

In Phnom Penh, the Cambodian military high command said the Communists attacked the plush mountain-top resort of Kiri Rom, which besides government troop installations includes villas and hotels frequented by Cambodia's wealthy class.

The strike began shortly after midnight and appeared to have more propaganda than military significance.

The command also said the two South Vietnamese infantry and armor regiments returned toward the border today after completing sweeps near Phnom Penh and of areas north and northeast of the capital when it appeared a communist attack was imminent.

A command spokesman said a forward command post of South Vietnam's IV Corps has been dismantled at Phnom Penh's military airport and its personnel returned to Can Tho, South Vietnam.

Other South Vietnamese troops, however, remained in the general area of Phnom Penh and may be used soon for operations in the north, where serious Communist pressure remains, the spokesman said.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. Army's chief of staff, arrived in Saigon today for a one-week visit, his first trip to South Vietnam since relinquishing command of U.S. forces there in June, 1968.

Westmoreland said he would spend a week visiting U.S. and South Vietnamese combat units and to study the progress of Vietnamization and to evaluate "the success of the operations in Cambodia."

The U.S. Command announced today that some bodies had been recovered from the wreck of a helicopter which crashed and burned Tuesday with Maj. Gen. George W. Casey, 48, and six other Americans aboard.

Missouri
Fugitives
Captured

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark. (AP) — Two escapees from a prison near Springfield, Mo., were apprehended near here Thursday when they were stopped at a roadblock set up in an attempt to capture three men wanted in an unrelated incident.

State Trooper Charles Suiter of Walnut Ridge said he and Deputy Sheriff Jim Johnson of Lawrence County apprehended David L. Reed, 35, and Charles Middleton, 45, both of Jefferson City, Mo., at the roadblock.

Suiter said the two men were in a car that was reportedly stolen recently at Hardy. He said Reed and Middleton escaped from the Fordland Prison July 5 and allegedly abandoned a stolen car at Hardy.

Reed and Middleton were being held at Walnut Ridge.
